Tax Resolution Services, Co., CEO Michael Rozbruch recognized for his successful business practices, integrity and negotiation skills.

Leader of nation's leading tax relief firm is interviewed in award-winning Connections Magazine to inspire business leaders to lead with personality, passion and purpose.

Encino, CA —Michael Rozbruch, CEO and Founder of Tax Resolution Services, Co., is known as the tax resolution expert and the leader of one of the most successful tax relief firms in the nation. The man behind the tax resolution firm is not as well-known, which is uncovered in a recent interview with Connections Magazine. Rozbruch's background is what makes him the professional he is, which became evident when he got personal with Jasmine Grim in a candid interview about his personal background which shaped his successful career decisions and savvy business practices. Rozbruch was featured in May's award-winning digital magazine Connections for a first-hand account of his best business and negotiating practices – leading his company with personality, passion and purpose.

In the interview titled "Everything's Up for Grabs; Even Non-Negotiables" Michael Rozbruch shares important advice and personal experiences on setting goals and getting what you want in a business environment – namely via negotiating. Rozbruch has a way with negotiating. Growing up as a second generation Holocaust Survivor, Michael experienced the expertise of negotiation by watching his father make business deals in his presence. The skills of negotiation and best business practices that Michael picked up in his youth have been defining traits in his success. Over the past 30 years, Michael served in the CFO role at companies before launching Tax Resolutions Services, Co., taking the helm as CEO.

Michael cites his experiences and observations in negotiation as a huge part of his ability to be so successful at it: "I know that everything is negotiable. Everything. Especially the things that say 'non-negotiable', those are the most negotiable things. If they went out of their way to specify it, it's a sticking point. So I go out of my way and learn why it's non-negotiable. By doing so I've learned how to work around it and get what I ultimately need." The Connections interview also picked up on Michael's focus and determination when setting goals, his insights on listening to those he is in negotiations with and his wisdom on being brazen when in business deals.
